

DIVISION OF RESPIROLOGY

University of Toronto's John and Frances Dawson Fellowship in Respiratory Medicine

Academic Year July 1, 2016 to June 30, 2017

The John and Frances Dawson Fellowship in Respiratory Medicine provides $53,000 in salary support for a graduate of the University of Toronto's Respiriology Resident Training Program to undertake a third year of training in a respiratory-related field for one year.

Eligibility and Terms of Reference:

1. Applicants must be in their second year of training in the University of Toronto's Respiriology Resident Training Program.
2. The third year of training must be in a Respiriology-related field and must be undertaken at the University of Toronto and/or its affiliated teaching hospitals or research institutes.
3. Fellowship training can be research, education, quality improvement or clinical, but priority is given to research training.
4. Where possible, candidates must apply for other sources of funding, either full or partial.
5. Priority will be given to those applying to one of the Division's areas of excellence (i.e. Lung Transplant, Cystic Fibrosis and Sleep), but anyone can apply in any Respiriology-related field.
6. Priority will be given to individuals applying to programs that do not have their own source of Fellowship funding.
7. Deadline for applications is January 31, 2016. Please send applications and related documents in PDF format by email to: Respirology@utoronto.ca
8. All applications will be reviewed by the Dawson Fellowship Review Committee.
